200 YEAR OLD OPERA REVIVED

(Correspondence of Associated Press)
CAMBRIDGE, Eng., March 1.—Purcell's opera "The Fairy Queen" has been revived at the New theatre here with great success, after a lapse of more than two centuries.
The first and only performance of 12th old English master's work was given in 1693. The score was afterwards lost, and in 1701 an advertisement appeared in the London Gazette offering a reward for its discovery, but without result. Exactly 200 years later it was found in a dusty cupboard at the Royal Academy of Music among a bundle of manuscripts bequeathed to that institution.

The Bonanza covers Nevada and surrounding states like a blanket escorted the body to the depot and saw it started on its last journey. Deceased had recently returned from service in the American army on the other side, where he participated in a large number of battles and escaped without a scratch. He was a veteran of the war with Spain, and although exempted by age from the draft, voluntarily joined the colors and stayed until the end of the war—Reveille

SWEDISH PRINCE CROSSES OCEAN

(Correspondence of Associated Press)
STOCKHOLM, Feb. 29.—Prince William of Sweden, second son of the king, some time ago left Stockholm accompanied by four of his friends for Honduras. He intends to spend about a year in studying its geography and ethnography.
Prince William is a very interesting personality. He was brought up on the sea, joining the Swedish navy as a cadet when only twelve years of age. His tutors had strict instructions that no consideration should be shown him because of his royal birth, that he should be made to work just as though he was a plain every-day boy.

The sailor prince is a good enough sportsman and an excellent golfer has scarcely an equal in Sweden.
REESE RIVER RANCHES HAS APPENDICITIS OPERATION
Last Monday, Dr. Belanger received a hurry call to attend James Lister at the ranch down on Reese river. He did not arrive any too soon, for he found the patient suffering from appendicitis and in immediate need of surgical treatment. The patient was immediately placed in an auto, accompanied by the doctor, started for Reno. On arriving at Reno, arrangements having been made by wire, he was taken direct to a hospital and operated upon. He rallied from the operation nicely, and although the ailment had reached a very critical stage he seems to have an excellent chance for recovery.—Reveille.

HOCKEY SEASON IN FULL SWING

(By Associated Press)
SEATTLE, Wash., March 18.—World championship honors in professional ice hockey will be decided on eastern ice this year between the teams of the Pacific Coast Hockey association, a western organization, and the National Hockey league, composed of eastern clubs.
The 1919 world series was played here on western ice between Seattle and Montreal. Each year the two big hockey organizations alternate in holding the championship series.
Neither the eastern nor western season has been completed. Ottawa probably will represent the east, according to reports received here. Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria, the three members of the western league, are in a close race for the title and the championship may not be determined until the final games.
The big series probably will be played late in March or early in April. Frank Patrick, Vancouver, president of the western association, probably will accompany the western title holders east.
No team holds the world title at present as the 1915 series in Seattle was halted by influenza when Seattle and Montreal each had won two games. The Stanley cup, given to the champions, was held this year by its trustees with both Seattle and Montreal having claims upon it.

FRENCH PLACE ORDER FOR TANK STEAMSHIP

(By Associated Press)
CHESTER, Pa., March 18.—A ship-building company of this city has received a French order for an 8,000-ton tank steamship. This is believed to be the first order for a ship to be placed by France in this country since the signing of the armistice.

POLAND WEDDED TO HIGH SEAS

(Correspondence Associated Press)
WARSAW, Feb. 26.—Tossing of a wedding ring into the ocean marked ceremonies recently held at Puck, or Putzig, to celebrate the reunification of Poland to the sea, an event of which all of Poland had dreamed for many years. Polish troops in their northward march on their own soil, as provided under the treaty of Versailles, had reached the coastline of the Baltic and begun to make themselves at home in the stretch of land, northwest of Danzig. This brought Poland to salt water again, after an absence of 148 years.
While Polish ships are to have use of wharves at Danzig, which is to be a free port under the league of nations, the new republic is desirous of a port which it may call its very own and it is with this end in view that the Polish government has set itself upon Puck, as it is spelled in Polish, as a site of the port where, in the future Poland may have absolutely free commercial access to the sea under protection of its own officials.
There was a race of the detachments of Polish soldiers to actually reach the coast and to be the first to dip a Polish flag into the waters of the Baltic.
Speaking at the exercises, General Haller said that from that day henceforth the seas of the world were open to the Polish sailor and that the Polish seamen would be quick to make the best of it. Then, in accordance with an old Polish tradition, General Haller threw a gold ring into the ocean as a sign that Poland had been wedded to the sea this time; he said, he hoped forever and forever.
Plans for a Polish navy are already under way.
